

Senator Says Adams Has Lost 'Usefulness'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Charles McNair of Michigan said today Sherman Adams "has lost his usefulness to the administration" unless he can account more fully for expensive favors from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

But despite a swirling political furor over President Eisenhower's top aide it seemed likely that no further explanation would be forthcoming for the time being. Under persistent questioning by newsmen, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty Friday refused to go beyond Adams' written explanation Thursday to a House subcommittee that earlier produced evidence Goldfine paid some $2,000 in Boston hotel bills for Adams over a four-year period.

And Hagerty repeated that Eisenhower has complete confidence in Adams and has no intention of firing him.

In a letter to subcommittee Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark), Adams acknowledged he had been in hotel guest of Goldfine in Boston and Plymouth, Mass. Describing Goldfine as an old friend, Adams said he had thought Goldfine kept the hotel rooms on a permanent basis.

Although saying he had contacted two federal regulator agencies on cases involving Goldfine, Adams said investigations that he had sought or obtained favored treatment for his friend were unwarranted and unfair.

Hagerty, who said Adams had knocked the favored treatment allegations "into a cocked hat," refused to say whether Adams, as reported, had accepted a $700 vintage coat or a $2,400 Oriental rug from Goldfine. Adams' letter said nothing about a coat or a rug. He has been unavailable to newsmen.

Subcommittee Counsel Robert W. Lishman said he has no evidence Adams received such gifts from the wealthy Boston industrialist.

Meanwhile the House subcommittee, checking influence on federal regulatory agencies, focused on hearings starting Monday, that might shed light on whether Adams swung federal favors for his Boston friend.

So far, there has been no evidence on the subcommittee record as to whether Adams helped Goldfine in troubles with the Federal Trade Commission and Securities and Exchange Commission.

Rep. Peter F. Mack (D-Ill.), who has called for Adams' resignation, said there is no special need now for the Harris subcommittee to concentrate on what further favors Adams may have received.

"He has already admitted to receiving quite substantial gifts," said Mack, a subcommittee member. Mack said the point is to show that Adams intervened from his important White House job to help Goldfine — a point Mack contended is already indicated by the record.

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP) — The search for Donald Keeton, young Texan, apparently ended on suicide in a rented plane, switched to this east Texas area today on the basis of information that he had made a brief landing near here.

The 19-year-old airman, whose engagement to a childhood sweetheart was broken last month, was on the ground two minutes at nearby Gregg at about 1:30 p. m. Thursday. Then, "look off again," he hasn't been seen since.

Earl Cleveland, superintendent for Premier Oil Refining Co. of Texas, said Keeton asked for gas and was told he would have to go to the Gregg County Airport eight miles away.

He never showed up at the Gregg County Airport.

Cleveland said Keeton appeared confused and headed southwest, not in the direction of the Gregg County field. Cleveland did not know he was talking to the missing airman until he saw an Associated Press wirephoto in Thursday's Houston News. Keeton, who was stationed at Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss., rented a plane from a Gulfport, Miss., airport. Bureau's lost track of him in northern Louisiana near Monroe.

That Band on Finger Means Much the Same in All Countries

By Mary Anita Laseter

This is the month for "third finger, left hand" decorations. In the minds of most American women that's the case, anyway.

However, the presence of a wedding band on that particular finger doesn't signify marriage in all countries, according to Mrs. Creighton Middlebrook, the German bride of a local man.

She explained that in her country, in which she became "Mrs. Middlebrook" some 15 years ago, only one ring is used for the engagement period and the wedding ceremony.

Before the vows are exchanged a German bride wears a gold band on the third finger of her left hand to show that she is engaged. Then, after a year, there is a large celebration of "the anniversary of the engagement."

Some time later, during the wedding ceremony, the groom takes the ring from his bride's left hand and puts it on her right hand. Both a civil ceremony and a religious service are used for a German wedding.

At the church the bride is not "given away" by anyone, and she walks into the sanctuary and down the aisle with the groom. She has no attendant, but a flower girl often walks before the couple, scattering petals in their path.

"Traditional music" and flowers are used in the church, though a German bride never carries her bouquet placed on a Bible as many American brides do. Instead, the minister or "pastor" presents a Bible to the couple as his wedding gift.

All other wedding gifts are flowers, whether they are from family or friends. The tradition of wearing "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue" is not used, but each German bride pins a few tiny white flowers called "myrtle" on her dress. When the ceremony is finished, these flowers are pressed and can be kept for years as a reminder of the solemn occasion.

A small, informal reception never follows a German wedding. Elaborate feasting and celebrating may continue from one day for a city wedding to a whole week in the rural areas.

According to custom, the bride and groom must slip away quickly when they leave for their honeymoon. Their friends do not say "huzzah" or even throw rice. Customs may vary, and ceremonies may differ, but the sound of a wedding march is the sweetest music heard by any wedding bells. That is the same all over the world.

Crown Western Assets Increase

Crown Western Investments, Inc., a mutual fund, located in Dallas, Texas, reported assets of $2,414,924 at the end of May, 1958, compared to $2,381,373 at the beginning of the year. The 22% increase in assets is attributable to the extent of $231,000 by new funds invested by shareholders and 502,551 by increases in the values of securities held in the portfolio of the two series of stock offered by the fund.

The asset value of shares for both series increased over 12% between January 1 and May 31, 1958. These increases are substantially greater than the advance experienced by the stock market in general, as measured by the well-known indices.

Swiss Okay Right of Women to Vote

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The Swiss Parliament approved a constitutional amendment today, to grant voting rights to women.

But some many deputies voted against the measure that the necessary, approving in a subsequent all-male referendum seems doubtful.

To become effective, the measure requires approval in an October referendum by an over-all majority of the cantons (states).

SS Benefits Total More Than Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in its history, the social security system is paying out more in benefits this year than it is taking in from taxes and interest.

Its trustees reported to Congress today that the Old Age and Survivors Insurance trust fund will drop about 429 million dollars in the fiscal year ending June 30, and may show a total decline of three to four billion dollars for the five-year period ending June 30, 1962.

But they emphasized that for the long-range future the system remains in balance for all practical purposes. They said the trust fund total should start another long-term rise in 1965.

The trust fund reached a peak of 23 billion dollars last June 30. The estimated five-year drop still would leave 19 to 20 billion dollars in the trust fund, which was set up specifically to meet such fluctuations.

Increases in several classes of benefits payments were cited by the trustees in making their revised estimates. They included:

1. More claims than expected were filed by persons first brought under the law in 1951 or 1952, especially farmers. Many of these people were already past retirement age and large numbers could qualify for benefits in a short period. This situation cannot be repeated because more than 9 out of 10 workers are now covered and no large groups remain to be covered in the future.

2. More women than expected have chosen to take a reduced benefit at age 62 instead of a full benefit at age 65. The report said this has no significant effect on the long-term cost. On the average, it said, the women will receive the same total amount of money regardless of which choice they make.

3. Because of the economic recession some older workers find it more difficult to keep or find a job, thus more than had been expected retired and applied for benefits.

It was noted that the recession also tends to reduce tax contributions to the system below previous estimates.

The tax rate is now 2 1/2% per cent on each employee and employer on the first $4,200 of a worker's yearly earnings. It is to go up one-half per cent on each in 1960, 1962, 1970 and 1975. The rate for self-employed persons is still again as high.

DeGaulle Maps Reform Plans to His Countrymen

PARIS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle today sought a sound financial foundation for his political and colonial reform plans by asking his countrymen to dig hoarded money out of their mattresses.

France's World War II leader laid his prestige on the line Friday night in a nationwide radio-TV appeal for support for a new bond issue. He said backing it would mean a financial vote of confidence.

De Gaulle outlined them as pacification of Algeria, straightening out France's embittered relations with her territories and her lost colonies and strengthening France into an important force in the Western Alliance.

De Gaulle turned again to the problem of Algeria today. He summoned Jacques Soustelle, political front man for the insurgent Algerian junta, after telling him wait two days for an appointment.

There was talk De Gaulle might reprimand Soustelle for the junta's attempts to dictate to the government. But some observers predicted the Premier might ask his former Parliamentary leader to campaign in North Africa for the De Gaulle program.

For the first time, De Gaulle Friday night described the future structure of France's overseas domain as a "federal" one—a vague term that could lead to something like the British Commonwealth.

Paris has always exercised tight control over her overseas possessions and considered them part of the French motherland.

Even before he went on the air De Gaulle got a vote of confidence from the Algiers Committee of Public Safety, which controls the all-Algeria junta. After the speech a spokesman for the Algiers group said:

"De Gaulle's program."

The auto companies' no-contract operations brought up new problems daily for workers and management alike.

Typical of the union stewards is Laymon Good of UAW local 1 which represents 4,000 UAW workers at Chrysler's Kewanee-Jefferson plant.

Under the recently expired contract, Good devoted practically all his work time to handling complaints and grievances.

Chrysler, like the other auto companies, pays the stewards and committeemen the rates they would get if working on their regular jobs in the auto plants.

In the no-contract period, Chrysler and the other companies have lightened up. At Chrysler, a union steward now has to report to his regular job for the first hour of his work day. He also has to work the first hour after lunch and the last hour of the day.

Norman Matthews, director of the UAW's Chrysler department, charged the new company policy was an attempt to intimidate unionists. Chrysler, he said, denied the charge saying that without a contract, it was not bound to have union representatives in the plants but would do so under tightened rules.

UAW officials said if the companies succeeded in a tactic of "down on the stewards, the average plant worker might become intimidated and accept possible unreasonable work standards.

Both private persons and government officials express keen interest in getting cultural presentations from the United States. Syria is beginning once more to mix socially with Americans.

For the first time since the Syria crisis in 1956, the fear of contact with Americans seems to be disappearing.

One reason appears to be that the Syrians — and their Egyptian partners — seem worried about the increasingly close involvement of the U.A.R. with the Communist bloc. This is particularly true of the business community.

The Russians are not being easy on the Syrians. In buying Syrian wheat, for example, the Russians are insisting on an arbitrary 8 per cent discount for spoilage. This is unheard of in such deals. Spoilage is usually attributed and seldom comes to more than 1 per cent.

The Russian attitude is causing anger particularly in the north, in the prosperous Gazira farming area. American influence, through the widespread use of American farm machinery and parts, is strong there. The anger spreads to the merchants of Aleppo, Syria's business capital.

Russian Newsmen to Abandon Tour

PANAMA (AP) — One of 10 Russian newsmen touring Latin America said today they are going home after Mexico and Costa Rica revoked permission for them to visit.

Panamanian officials began making arrangements to send the Russians back to Chile. They arrived in Panama Thursday on transit visas from Chile to Mexico.

The reasons for canceling their visas was not made public.

The group has been traveling around Latin America for more than a month.

Stewards Play Big Part in UAW Fight

By CHARES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — An army of 20,000 minor union officials has begun a vital factor in the United Auto Workers' fight to win new contract demands from the automotive Big Three.

They are the union shop stewards and plant committeemen working under unusual conditions to handle the problems of nearly half a million General Motors, Chrysler and Ford UAW workers during their current no-contract period.

The stewards and committeemen figured prominently in the UAW strategy when the union's contracts with the Big Three ran out about two weeks ago. Since then, for the first time in over 17 years, the auto plants have been operating without a contract.

GM, Chrysler, Ford and the union all said when the contracts expired that they would do their best to keep the plants operating normally while negotiators tried to agree on a new pact.

It's nearly impossible to find anyone who sees chance of agreement before August. The UAW Thursday set in motion the machinery to take strike votes among GM, Ford and Chrysler workers but emphasized there was no plan for an immediate strike.

The auto companies' no-contract operations brought up new problems daily for workers and management alike.

How Grown Up Are You Emotionally?

ROCHELLE PARK, N. J. (AP) — If you want to find out how grown-up emotionally you are, here's a test.

Following are seven qualities listed by Dr. William C. Menninger of Topeka, Kan., a noted psychiatrist, as criteria of emotional maturity.

1. Can you change? (Which implies the abandonment of solutions learned in childhood.)
2. Can you accept frustration for future gain? (Compromising rather than running away or fighting.)
3. Can you find more satisfaction in "giving than getting"? (A reversal of the infant role, which has only demands.)
4. Can you meet stress without disabling symptoms?
5. Can you direct your anger into constructive outlets?
6. Do you have the capacity to love? (The doctor says that is the only neutralizer of hate.)
7. Can you relate to people in a consistent manner? (Or do you switch from friendliness today to hostility tomorrow?)

Menninger, general secretary of the Menninger Foundation in Topeka, advanced the list in a speech before the Bergen County Mental Health Center.

Central High, Awaits Judge's Decision

By CLIFTON WELLS

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — School authorities here, who received little sympathy from the federal bench last September, now await an Arkansas jurist's decision on the future course of racial integration at Central High School.

U. S. District Judge Harry J. Lemley of Hope has under advisement the school board's petition for a 2 1/2 year suspension of integration at the school.

Lemley said from the bench that he would hand down a decision as soon as possible, but it probably will be some weeks before he can digest the mountain of testimony and exhibits introduced in federal court here last week.

School Supt. Blossom, the board's key witness, turned out to be a talkative performer in contrast to the official silence he maintained through most of the racial crisis.

He recounted the surprise which he and the board felt at Gov. Orval Faubus' action in surrounding the school with National Guardsmen on the eve of school opening last fall. And, for the first time, he revealed that U.S. District Judge Ronald N. Davies of Fargo, N.D., had refused use of marshals to help in carrying out his order to proceed forthwith with desegregation.

"With reference to Judge Davies," Blossom told Lemley, "under actual instruction of the board and after a full conference and discussion on it, I went to Judge Davies and asked for his help. He said he would help in this problem, and was turned down."

"Did the instructions Judge Davies gave solve any of the problems of the Little Rock School Board?" the superintendent was asked.

"I do not think they solved any problems for us," he replied.

On other aspects of the crisis, Blossom testified.

Mitchell Is Always Out on a Limb

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — James P. Mitchell, President Eisenhower's secretary of labor, is always getting out on a limb.

But he likes it there, and it seems to be his way of getting things done.

Mitchell surprised everyone Monday by sending a vehement message from Switzerland, where he was attending a meeting, blasting a Senate labor anticorruption bill as ineffective, worse than none at all.

The senators whose work he was criticizing called him intemperate, and said he was injecting the whole thing into politics. Mitchell came flying back from Europe Thursday and went up on Capitol Hill. The Senate got busy making changes he'd suggested.

"I'd just made a simple statement, nobody would have paid any attention," Mitchell said. "But he's won his point, hasn't he?"

There is nothing new to the burly, lousie-haired, 200-pound six-footer, who at various times has had labor, business and apparently even the White House mad at him.

But he's a political good soldier; when overruled he accepts the decision. Last March he said a "big cut in personal and business taxes was next," big step needed to halt the recession, and the administration was working on such a bill. A quick White House denial followed. Mitchell swallowed it.

Mitchell, 37, has been alternately cursed and praised by business one time, by labor another. He just barges along speaking his mind, and gets away with it. A hard worker, he spends nights and weekends too, on his job.

And when Republican campaign times come around, nobody is out there pitching any harder than Mitchell.

Swim Classes Start Monday at Hope Pool

This year's swimming classes will start Monday, June 16, at 9 a. m. for ages six through 16. The classes are free to everyone with an admission ticket to the pool.

Private adult classes will begin Monday night and will be conducted three times weekly with Cary Castle and Jimmy Chambers as instructors. Chambers and David Watkins will also hold private lessons. Anyone interested should contact the pool office Saturday or Sunday.

Superstitions of East, West Coincide

WORLD BRIEF

HONG KONG (AP) — Western and Eastern superstitions coincide today.

The Western calendar's only Friday the 13th in 1958 is the Day of San—the Day of the Weapon—ON-THIR Chinese lunar calendar. It is a most unlucky day to give parties, do business, sign contracts, get married, or lend money.

It also is a day to avoid friends if friendships is to be retained, should two friends meet accidentally, each should pretend not to see the other.

Done strictly, this may fool the bad luck devils into believing no friendships exist, weakening the force of the day's evil.

Search of other victims.

Rebels Accuse U.S. of Being Spectators

By HELMAN MORIN

TUNIS (AP) — Spokesman for the Algerian rebels accused the United States today of standing back and watching their rebellion like a football game while arming the French team.

The spokesman charged that only the receipt of U.S. aid has enabled France to fight the rebels for 43 months.

"Give us one plane, only one civilian transport with only one of its four engines working and we will believe the United States is not supporting French colonialism," the rebel said.

The spokesman interviewed in Tunis is an important official of the National Liberation Front, the spearhead of the rebellion, who cannot be identified by name. He was accompanied by a man introduced as a major just back from fighting with the rebel army.

The official repeated earlier rebel rejection of French Premier de Gaulle's offer of equal French citizenship to the Algerian Arabs and Berbers in hopes of ending the uprising. De Gaulle also promised on a tour of Algeria last week to call local elections there soon.

The spokesman said, "Details of his politics and proposals that interest the West do not interest us at all."

Since the rebellion started in November 1954 the nine million Algerians have suffered more than 600,000 casualties of killed, wounded and missing, the spokesman said. "In light of that, it is a mockery to ask me what the people think of De Gaulle's proposal for elections."

The rebel army has grown from about 3,000 men armed with handguns, knives and clubs to about 130,000 men now, the official said. He claimed the rebels have had some "airings," although none have been reported in operation with rebel forces.

Further details of rebel military strength were withheld by the spokesman.

Raised 45 Boys, All Did Fine

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A woman who has reared 45 boys recalls, with pride that none has ever let the family down.

Mrs. Alice MacDonald, 50, said her code to prevent juvenile delinquency is: "Be very strict, very severe—no cns until 18, no running the streets—but lots of love and understanding."

"And if the boys have a question, you have to answer it now, not put them off until later. [This is true, regardless of what the problem is]," she says.

Mrs. MacDonald goes to Camp Pendleton today to visit troops of the boys who are Marines. She has reared most of the 45 with her husband at their rural home in Paradise, Calif. Three were natural sons, the rest foster sons.

Twenty-five of the boys have gone into the Marine Corps, Navy, Army or Air Force. One rose to the rank of major. The oldest natural son, Marine Capt. James H. MacDonald, was killed in action in Korea.

One is a minister. The father of the clan, Edwin MacDonald, 53, has worked for the Diamond Match Co. in Chicago for years.

The first foster son came from a broken home. "After that," Mrs. MacDonald said, "our home just seemed to become a haven for boys."

Hope Folks Attend Insurance Meet

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Brents McPherson of Hope attended a Four States Life Underwriters Association meeting last night at Texarkana.

Frank L. Whitbeck Jr., president of the Pioneer Western Life Ins. Co. of Little Rock was principal speaker at the meeting and discussed the company which he founded in 1955.

Covered Dish Luncheon Enjoyed by
DeAnn Lilac Club
The DeAnn Lilac Club met Tuesday June 10 at 11 a. m. for a covered dish luncheon.
The president, Mrs. Roy Burke, called the meeting to order, and the business was discussed, and voted to have a combined family night with the R. C. I. in July.

Mrs. Claud O'Steen and Mrs. Roy Roberts will be hostess in August.

The devotional reading was given by Mrs. Trula Coffee and prayer by Mrs. Jody Perkins.

Mrs. A. M. Rettig of Prescott had charge of the program, and gave a very interesting demonstration on making corsages and many tips on how and where to wear them. Mrs. Rettig introduced Mrs. J. R. Shipp of Prescott who gave a demonstration on flower arrangements.

The dining table was covered with a white cloth work linen cloth, with a circle of blue hydrangeas in the center. A crystal bowl filled with blue water was placed in the hydrangeas. Dry ice was fogging over the flowers, which was most attractive. The covered dishes brought by members were enjoyed by the 12 members and nine visitors present.

DeGaulle Has Program to Bolster France

PARIS (AP)—Premier de Gaulle unwrapped his ideas for a stronger executive today, proposing to give French presidents the power to fire premiers and dissolve parliaments.

Cabinet ministers disclosed this after he told them privately about his thinking on sweeping constitutional changes. He will carry his program to the people in a referendum this fall, French presidents are chiefs of state but have little real authority.

The ministers said they wanted a president elected by a larger representation of the people. Election now is by the combined National Assembly and Senate. De Gaulle was said to favor an electoral college drawn from departmental councils and corresponding roughly to the U.S. electoral college.

The ministers said De Gaulle wants to bar Assembly deputies from holding Cabinet posts and to strengthen the Senate and make it a federal body including representatives from all French territories.

De Gaulle moved to re-establish civilian control over Corsica. He sent Guy Lemaire there as new civilian governor to replace the one ousted by the Corsican Committee of Public Safety on May 24.

Lemaire was met by Col. Jean Thomaze, the man the Algerian revolutionary junta sent to take over civilian and military power after the Corsicans threw in their lot with dissident Algeria.

More Trouble in New York Schools

NEW YORK (AP)—A 15-year-old high school student lost his left hand Thursday when a giant firecracker he was trying to make exploded in a classroom.

Angelo Roselli, described by school officials as an outstanding student, was trying to convert 30 firecrackers into a single super firecracker for the Fourth of July. His condition was described as critical.

Dave Rose Is a Real Steam Engine Addict

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When you see Dave Rose conducting his smooth music for the Red Skelton TV show, you'd scarcely suspect that he's a steam engine addict.

The suave conductor-composer has it bad. He not only has one of the world's largest collections of miniature steam engines, he even has a steam train that runs around his San Fernando Valley home.

"Every Saturday, I blow the whistle and the kids come from all over the neighborhood," he said.

When Dave clicked as a composer 20 years ago, he began shoving the profit into steam. He collected engines from all over the world and developed his own miniature train, a kee-high affair that will pull 150 people.

"Disneyland started right here," Dave said proudly as he surveyed the track in his back yard. "Years ago, Walt Disney came here to see my train because he was thinking of getting one of his own."

Cou know it's got to be a main for Dave because it isn't deductible. Out there, celebrities hardly ever put so much money into something unless it earns a profit or an income tax deduction.

"It sometimes uses the train for publicity," he explained, "but otherwise, the expense is pure joy."

"But I think it's worth it. There's nothing I like better than to get up a head of steam or take an engine apart."

The diversion provides welcome relief from the rigors of Dave's musical life. A perfectionist, he composes and arranges most of his own material. Besides the Skelton show, he does the Shower of Stars and other programs. His record albums are best sellers, and he sometimes does a movie score.

Then he keeps up a steady schedule of concerts. This week he was in Portland, Ore., conducting at the Rose Festival. Today he leaves for Europe to scout the possibilities of doing some concerts over there this summer.

Strike Holds Up Ocean Liner U. S.

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike by 48 engineers held up the liner United States eight hours Thursday.

The liner, America's largest and carrying 1,776 Europe-bound passengers, was scheduled to sail at noon but the engineers refused to sign on until a list of grievances was settled.

Grievances involved shift assignments in port that cut down their time ashore with their families, arbitrary transfers to other ships, and discrimination in promotions.

DISPLAY THE FLAG on Flag Day, June 14

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix: Eight years ago, when I was 23, I left my small town home and came to the city to work. Soon after I arrived I met Lou, and we set up housekeeping on the strength of his promises to marry me when he had enough money. Well, he never has had "enough" for marriage, though he has financed numerous new cars and contributes generously to the racetrack. I have never ceased begging him to marry me, but he puts me off with one poor excuse after another. I'd like to get married, have children and abide by the rules of God. Most people, I guess, take us for married folks. Have you any suggestions about how I can nudge him to the altar?—Sal

Dear Sal: Since you think your home needs a moral housecleaning, why not tackle your own end? I'm sure Lou hasn't got you shackled; you're a free agent and can walk out when you please. I suggest that you do exactly that—and pronto. Lou never will marry you; on that you can rely even if you can't trust anything else about him. He'll walk out on you when he gets good and ready or meets someone who appeals to him more than you do. He's bound to you only by the laws of convenience. Make your own peace with God; you'll feel much better for it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My parents permitted me to date, at 14, and have never opposed any of my boy friends. Two years ago I began dating Vic, and now that we're about decided to get married, my folks are creating an uproar. I'm 18 now, and know my own mind. Why do they interfere now when they've been so complacent all along?—Winnie

Dear Winnie: Parents are unpredictable creatures, aren't they? Only Mother and Dad can answer your question and I think you're entitled to an explanation. Break them down into giving one.

Dear Dorothy Dix: How can I overcome my tendency to crutches? I've had them on my dentist, music teacher, my father's best friend and the basketball coach at school. I'm only 18 and I would like to overcome this habit. —Summer

Dear Summer: You're at an impressionable age, and very romantically inclined. There's nothing wrong in crutches. In fact, they're quite normal for young teenagers—only most kids stick to movie stars. If the older men, who seem to be the targets for your dreams, found out about these crutches to yourself, Time will effect a cure.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My girl friend has a list of about 50 boys she knows. One of them is a sailor who took me to the movies last week. She heard about it and had a fight with both of us now she won't speak to me, but she is "dating him again."

Dear Brenda: Looks like the only way you'll get a boy friend is to move to a town that your girl friend hasn't monopolized. Apparently she has cornered the market in your locale.

Anything else?

"Yeah, there was something," I said. "Do you know what kind of car Perrola keeps in New York?"

"Yeah, what about it?"

"Nothing important," I said. "He and I are about to start for Westport, Conn. I understand he's a very fast driver. Why don't you arrange to have the traffic officers keep an eye out for him?"

"He has diplomatic immunity."

"Why don't you try it anyway? And have a little confidence in your Uncle Milo?"

We were just about to the thoroughway and making a good 75 on a city street when a siren light started blinking. Perrola pulled to the side of the street. The patrol car out in front of us and stopped. One of the officers got out and came back.

"In a hurry wasn't you?" he asked.

Perrola got out his license and handed it over. "While you're looking at it, officer, you might notice that I'm an ambassador of the Mexican Republic. I have diplomatic immunity."

This was my cue. "Raimundo," I said, juggling at his sleeve.

"We were only doing 75 and the line on it can't be more than maybe $50. It's not much money. Waive your immunity and pay it."

"Why?" he asked arrogantly.

"Merry M. L. A.," I said. "Comes from old American stock. She's got all kinds of pull, but she insists on paying every little parking ticket she gets. And I've heard her rate about people who use pull to get out of paying fines. If you waive your immunity and pay the fine, I'll go over big with her."

"Yeah, I guess you're right," he said, handing the license back through the window.

"Of course I'm right," Perrola said. "However, officer, I have decided to waive my immunity. After all, the laws of my country should be obeyed."

"Yeah!" the cop said unbelievably. He released me quickly. "Okay, tell your pal to go up and get in the patrol car. I'll ride with you. We'll go to the precinct."

The traffic cop explained the whole thing to the desk sergeant and he asked Perrola if it was true that he waived his diplomatic immunity. Perrola said that it was. At that point, Johnny Beckland stepped forward and arrested him for used were, first, mental ability; second, achievement records, or third, achievement level of the child; third, his citizenship, his record in school; and fourth, his health, which included mental, physical, emotional maturity, of the 60 to 70 who applied, there were not any of them actually excluded.

"This problem was one that most of the people of this community did not have a kindly feeling toward. As the (gradual plan for integration) was presented, it appeared to me that the people thought there was less of integration, the thing that they did not want, than they had anticipated here would be, and therefore they got some relief from the plan itself. I never did have the feeling that they wanted integration."

GEORGIA GOVERNOR—"I observed a considerable change in the attitude of this community. . . there was a tremendous amount of opposition following the appearance of the Governor (Marvin Griffin) of Georgia, and the one point that seemed to be uppermost in the minds of every citizen that spoke to me was this fact, that no school district has integrated, or has had to integrate, who didn't have a plan."

FEDERAL TROOPS—"My opinion is that there was the potential for real danger. . . I think ample evidence of it is simply this, that the board did not call the troops. Somebody else thought it was necessary to call the troops. They thought so too."

NEGRO EXPELLED—"Minnie Jean Brown was a person that lacked the ability to adjust to a difficult situation. Not only the welfare of Minijean was involved, but the welfare of all the students."

Her actions and employment of the guards, when she went up and down the halls of the schools, created, because of her own actions, tremendous animosity to the extent that the animosity of a lot of children was directed to a lot of others. . . Minijean Brown had more counseling, more good advice, that she didn't take than any other student of the 2,000 in Central High School."

STATE OPPOSITION—"We have had total opposition from the state in that the executive branch of state government placed troops around the school; the legislative branch of government passed the segregation acts; the judicial branch of the government has not aided in any enforcement."

INSEPARABLE BUT EQUAL DOCTRINE—"I am not arguing the separate but equal philosophy. . . You wonder how fast, in terms of history, anyone can expect a change in cultural patterns in this district which was actually separate but equal, and could so be defended."

SEPTEMBER 1948—"The occasion of the last two weeks of school was very difficult. There was much tension. I see nothing to indicate that conditions will be different when we resume than when we closed. I see no lessening of our responsibility on the question of the safety of everybody concerned."

Wayne Upton, president of the school board, sought to explain how the board had arrived at its requested 2½ year suspension of integration.

"We arrived at the half-year because I think the beginning of integration during the middle of a semester would be much better than at the beginning of the school year," he said.

In answer to another question, Upton said:

"I thought Perrola was going to be somebody. He looked at me and you could see he'd figured it out. If there ever was a double whammy, it was in his eyes."

"Then I went into session with Johnny. I gave him the photograph of Perrola's bank account and the one hundred and thirty thousand deposit. I told him everything that I knew."

"A chance is all I want," he said firmly. He went to the phone and made a call. "The boys have El Nari on ice," he said when he came back. "He's doing some talking, but not enough yet. But we may be able to use what he's said as a lever. They've sent the gun over to be checked. That ought to give us something. The boys say he has a pretty badly busted nose."

"Probably fell down," I said.

"You're a little marked yourself," I said.

"Shaving," I said. "You know they don't have these good American blades in these foreign countries."

I picked up my suitcase, emptied at the desk sergeant and went out. I looked around for a car. A patrol taxi swooped into the curb. "Taxi, mister," the driver asked.

"You're as welcome as the flowers in May," I told him. "Take me to—"

"Pay no attention to him, drive," another voice cut in. "Take us to Westport, Conn. And don't spare the cinders."

"I know who it was without looking around. Hello, officer," I said. "How did you get here?"

"I was way ahead of you, bus-

Mrs. W. I. Stroud, a Candidate for Tax Assessor, Answers Questions That Are Asked Daily, Concerning the Tax Law and the Assessor's Panel

The answers are quoted from the assessment manual as of September 1, 1956, and other laws. The manual was produced under the provision of Act 153 of the acts of 1955 that called for a complete reappraisal of all real and personal property in the state of Arkansas.

The taxpayers of Hempstead County paid for a reappraisal that was promoted and carried out the first six months of 1956, and cost them $17,804.17, the people did not vote on the act until August 1956; therefore, the assessment was not valid or lawful.

Question: How can the assessor refuse to do the job he is elected to do? Just what is the law? Answer: Chapter 8, page 29, 30, and 31 of the assessors' manual states that the assessor must annually begin assessing personal property on the first Monday in January, and each odd-numbered year the assessor shall between the first Monday in January and the third Monday in August assess all the real property of said county.

Delinquent assessment penalties: All property in this state shall be assessed by the duly authorized authorities according to its value on the first day of January. There shall be a penalty of 10% of all the taxes on all persons and property delinquent in assessments, not listed for assessment with the assessor on or before the 10th day of April of the year in which such assessment so required as provided by this act. Chapter 9, page 33 states the county assessor shall devote his entire time to the duties of his office. The assessor shall maintain an office at the county seat of the county which he officially serves, and assessor and deputy shall remain in his office between the first Monday in January and the last day of April of each year for the purpose of taking list of all real and personal property. All persons owning real or personal property or both shall at that time and place deliver to the assessor a verified list of his real and personal property.

Chapter 9, page 35, Section 2: The Arkansas Public Service Commission in this act, hereinafter called the commission shall furnish guidance, and assistance to the county assessor in the performance of their duties under this act, but the commission shall not have the authority to assess or reassess any property now assessed by law to be assessed by the county assessor, nor to order the assessment of the property of any designated taxpayer at any specified amount.

Question: Can the deputy assessors go into the home by law? No. The law says not even a sheriff can enter your home without a warrant.

Question: How can a tax assessor that is bonded refuse many to assess their taxes as he did in January and February, then later contact others by telephone and in person, and ask them to come in and assess their taxes? Answer: He cannot lawfully.

Question: Why did he then? Answer: He met with opposition and did not abide by the laws of the county officials as bonded. Chapter 9, Section 43, page 40, states that any county official who neglects, fails, or refuses to perform his duties shall be subject to removal from office and is liable on his official bond for such neglect, failure or refusal.

Question: Did the schools and county lose the state turnback in 1957? Answer: No. Chapter 9, Section 1, page 35, states there shall be a complete new appraisal and assessment as of January 1st, 1957. Section 7, page 37, states each county assessor shall complete his work on such appraisal and assessment and make reports to the County Clerk as provided by law on or before the first Monday in June 1957, provided that any

Methodists Support U.S. Court Ruling

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—The North Arkansas Conference of the Methodist Church yesterday reaffirmed its support of U. S. Supreme Court decisions on racial integration in the public schools.

Arkansas Methodists were one of the first groups to formally approve the court decisions. They acted at annual conference meetings shortly after the original ruling was handed down in May, 1954. A resolution adopted by the North Arkansas Conference yesterday said "we reaffirm the conviction expressed by this conference four years ago that the decisions are a reflection of the highest ideals of our Christian faith."

"Removing barriers of discrimination is not only technically the law of the land but ethically and morally right. This is not to minimize the difficulties in achieving this ideal in many communities where traditions are strong and of long standing."

"But the greatness of our problem is an indication of the greatness of our opportunity to give our disturbed people an effective Christian witness in a spirit of love and understanding."

The resolution was in the form of a report from the conference Board of Social and Economic Relations, which the conference adopted.

Sixteen ministers were ordained deacons last night and 11 were ordained to elder's orders.

Yesterday six ministers were admitted to full connection with the conference, and five were admitted on trial.

The 123rd annual meeting of the conference winds up today after reading of pastoral assignments by Bishop Paul E. Martin.

At least two new district superintendents were to be named. The Rev. Otto W. Tenney, superintendent of the Forrest City District, has been transferred to the Little Rock Conference to be pastor of Little Rock's Abney Methodist Church. The Rev. Henry T. Jones, superintendent of the Conway District, has been transferred to the Louisiana Conference to be superintendent of the New Orleans District.

Jonesboro Man Faces Embezzling Charge

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—William Lewis Mann, a former Searcy town's Truism National Bank, was arrested by FBI agents here yesterday on charges of embezzling $3000 from the bank.

Mann, 34, was released on $2,000 bond after a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Carson Brodie.

M. J. Casper, special agent in charge of the FBI at Little Rock, said Mann was employed at the bank from June 1, 1952, until April 28 of this year.

Duke Ellington, internationally known orchestra leader, once worked as a soda jerk in a Pepple Dog Cafe in Washington, D. C.

Troops Walk

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Only
British troops walked the streets of Nicosia today as authorities clamped on the first 100 per cent curfew in an effort to end communitarian fighting.

British also ordered paratroopers to the Mediterranean colony to strengthen her troops trying to end continuing clashes between Greek and Turkish Cypriots. Eleven Cypriots have been killed since Saturday.

Since the outbreak of communal fighting, the Greek and Turkish communities had been allowed out of doors separately for several hours daily to get food and other essentials. Today even that was prohibited and pass holders as doctors, civil servants and reporters were included in the pro-

$50,000 in Jewelry Stolen
In Missouri

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP)—Approximately $50,000 in diamond rings and diamond-studded wrist watches were missing from a downtown jewelry store today in a daring
Thursday night burglary.

The burglar snapped off a front door lock of the McKee Jewelry Store and made off with the valuables at about 8 p.m., police—estimated.

A merchant policeman happened by 35 minutes later and found the opened door. A business neighbor, Harry Nivens, told Detective Earl Portner he saw somebody in the window of the store around 8 p.m., but assumed him to be a store employee delivering merchandise after closing hours.

Most of the watches taken were on display shelves inside the door.
The rings were in the window.

Lee McKee, the owner, estimated he lost about 60 wrist watches, all set with diamonds, and approximately 20 diamond rings.

Police Lt. Gene Elchberger said the burglar had a knowledge of locks. He popped this one open with a sharp-edged crowbar, apparently without much noise.

WARRREN, Ark. (AP)—Bradley County's second annual "Pink" Tomato Festival opened here today, just three days after the county's first batch of 1958 tomatoes was sold at auction.

The 2-day festival started last year in recognition of the million dollar income from the county's tomato crop, is called "pink" because of the color of the tomatoes grown in this area.

Tuesday, the year's first half bushel basket of tomatoes, produced at Ingalls, brought $70 at an auction in Warren.

Festival activities will include a parade, beauty contest, Queen's Ball and speeches by gubernatorial candidates.

Chris Pinkbender of Little Rock,
one of the Democratic candidates for governor, will serve as a judge at a growers' competition this afternoon. He and another candidate, Chancellor Lee Ward of Para-gould, are scheduled to speak at the festival tomorrow.

U.S. Has to Deal With
East Germans

BONN, Germany (AP)—The
Russians made it official today.
The United States will have to deal directly with Communist
East Germany to get back nine American Army men and their helicopter who strayed into the Red satellite.

The Russians delivered a letter to the U.S. Embassy in Bonn
declaring that return of the Americans was not within the competence of the Soviet forces.

Presumably the United States now will make some sort of approach to East German officials, since Secretary of State Dulles said earlier this week that negotiations with them to secure the return of the eight officers, and one sergeant would not imply diplomatic recognition of the Red German government.

The United States and its allies do not recognize the East German government on the ground
that it is an illegal regime imposed by the Soviet army.

The helicopter, got lost in a thunderstorm Saturday.

OUTDOORS
with John Alden Knight

A friend and I were bonefishing one day, cruising the flats east of Julia Island which lies on the Atlantic side of Key Largo, Florida. A skiff approached us out of Garden Cove, driven by a little five-horse outboard. This craft was the regular Keys skiff, a row-boat really—length 18 ft., beam about 6 ft., and free board about 18 inches.

In this skiff, so help me, were eight people, five adults and three children. And there they went, heading out into the Atlantic to do some fishing. What with the load on board, I'm sure that the gunwale could not have been eight inches above the water. We watched them for a while, moving out through the ground swell toward the barrier reef, seven miles offshore.

The last we saw of them they were still right side up. That's the sort of thing that contributes heavily each year to the national statistics on boating accidents and drownings.

At the close of the 1957 boating season, the Outboard Boating Club of America compiled a report, giving the findings of an able group of investigators who had spent the summer tabulating the vital statistics of fatal boating accidents throughout the nation.

Nobody, and that includes this department, takes much pleasure from reading statistics unless those figures are of vital concern to the reader. However, if you spend much time in small boats, such information as the Outboard Boating Club of America has compiled is surely worth more than passing notice.

The thing which was brought home quite strongly on reading this report was the sad truth that a very small percentage of boating accidents are unavoidable. The rest can be credited to inexperience, thoughtlessness (which is another way of saying "stupidity") and downright disregard of the rules of courtesy and common-sense boat handling.

For example, more than 35 percent of the boating fatalities throughout the nation could be attributed directly to "foolish operation, overloading, standing up in the boat, turning too sharply, etc."

It must be remembered that America's pleasure-boat fleet has more than tripled in the past ten years. In 1937 alone, 350,000 small craft were added to the highest previous total. In that same year, it has been reliably estimated that there were 7,071,000 pleasure craft afloat and in use on the Nation's waters.

To our way of thinking (and the Russians made it official today)
the United States will have to deal directly with Communist
East Germany to get back nine American Army men and their helicopter who strayed into the Red satellite.

The Russians delivered a letter
to the U.S. Embassy in Bonn
declaring that return of the Americans was not within the competence of the Soviet forces.

proach to East German officials,

gotiations with them to secure

man government on the ground
that it is an illegal regime imposed by the Soviet army.

Told About
U.S. Waste

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—An Arkansas educator declared today that America may not be able to meet Russia's challenge in the cold war unless this nation stops wasting its resources.

"The tragic waste of her richest resource," her youth.

Dr. Ralph Phelps, president of Ouachita Baptist College in Arka-naso, made the statement in an address to the spring meeting of the Arkansas Press Assn.

More has been done "to preserve the deer and the whooping crane than to conserve the potential of our boys and girls," Dr. Phelps said. "We have worked harder at saving our soil from erosion than at keeping children out of police courts."

The educator listed three areas of "needless waste" of youth: Juvenile delinquency; lack of thorough physical training and failure to utilize especially gifted youngsters.

One in every 50 boys and girls in this nation is now officially classified as a juvenile delinquent, Dr. Phelps said in quoting from a recent report by the FBI. He blamed the upsurge in delinquency on a combined failure of influence in homes, churches, communities and schools.

"Unless every citizen is awakened to the acuteness of the problem of juvenile delinquency," the educator said, "we shall be so involved in mopping-up operations at home that we shall have little energy left for stopping the floodtide of communism."

Dr. Phelps said recent comparisons of American and Russian youth had revealed "the woeful lack of physical fitness of our boys and girls." He added, "Our program is geared to train a few who are already physically competent instead of to give all children a good physical education."

Too many schools had rather win a county basketball championship than have a physical training program that would give a big group of children the physical skills they need to be fit, Dr. Phelps said.

He deplored the failure to develop the talents of gifted children, terming them "retarded" because school programs were geared for only average students.

Dr. Phelps said youngsters with a scholarly bent had been ridiculed as "eggheads" and that this had caused some with high intelligence quotients "to shy away from academic development."

"We learned much to our shock when the Russians launched their first Sputnik that there was a vital place for the theoretical scholars in our society and that our very survival in the future might depend on how much encouragement these had been given in the United States," he said.

Dr. Phelps urged that all persons concerned with newsprint and other communication media point out the need for "conserving youth."

The association meeting started today and will end tomorrow. Tonight Frank Broyles, head coach of the University of Arkansas football team, is scheduled to address delegates at a banquet.

Ruled Out of Sheriff's Race

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — J. Lee Wright of Harrisburg was ruled ineligible yesterday to run as a candidate for county sheriff and collector in this summer's Democratic primary.

Circuit Judge Charles Light ordered the Poinsett County Democratic Central Committee to omit Wright's name from the ballot on grounds he had not signed his corrupt practices pledge by the April 30 deadline.

Wright said he would appeal to the Arkansas Supreme Court.

Light's ruling was given on a writ filed by Sheriff C. T. Sullivan. Wright was Sullivan's only opponent.

In a recent similar case in Jefferson County, Stat Rep. Carl Purcell was allowed to file his corrupt practices pledge after the deadline on an order of Circuit Judge Henry Smith.

The popular lunchtime snack, the sandwich, was invented by the Earl of Sandwich in the 1700's. The Earl loved to play cards so much that he wouldn't stop to go to the dining room to eat. He had slices of meat put between two slices of bread to eat while he continued playing.

STRENGTHEN YOUR FAITH

Through Regular Church Worship

HIS DAY

Come Sunday, the world will pay homage to a very special fellow.
He is the husband — the father — the breadwinner and the sturdy foundation of our community. We pause to do him honor. He may be gruff, and stern, and tanned of face, but he is Dad. Just get an x-ray of his heart if you really want to see something rare. What strange, but wonderful people these fathers are. They are the world's easiest victims of love's attack. Just pour on a little attention, seasoned with about two parts of tenderness and give in very small doses... since he could never stand a big dose. Then just sit back and watch his big heart warm up. It will respond in true father fashion. This Father's Day, won't you take him to God's House for an hour of worship?
